Butter Wouldn't Melt

Featuring Andrea Reid and Nick and Derek Burfield

Butter Wouldn't Melt will melt your heart with soulful stories, soaring harmonies, far-away fables and not so sappy love songs. They have been busy writing their own material and are in the process of recording their first album. It promises to be a unique blend of their many influences and firmly rooted in Americana. Crowd favourites include Lost - a song about losing your way, The Tunnel - the story of Victoria Tunnel's ghost, Queen of Starlight - a tale of escape and Overdue - about the day Nick and Andrea met as kids and made a wish upon a star, that finally came true ten years later.

Andrea Reid (dulcimer, whistles, vocals) is the daughter of folk musicians Jean Reid (The queen of traditional harmonies) and Andrew Judd (NZ's Jethro Tull), was raised in West Auckland and has attended the Auckland Folk Festival since before her very first birthday. Chances are if you have wandered into a singing circle at a folk festival in New Zealand, you will have heard her wonderful harmonies. In 2010 she won the AFF Martin Blackman award and following this became a founding member of Pocket Candy and Norwegian Blues. She has performed with Wai Tai, The Reid Holland Project, Scallewag and as a duet with Victoria Vigenser. Andrea has been inspired throughout her life by the many wonderful women of the folk scene and she grew up singing along with family friends stle player. Whilst her music may have strayed from her traditional upbringing, she still brings her unique talent of harmonising that she learned at the feet of some of New Zealand's top traditional folk singers.

Nick Burfield (guitar and vocals) was a guest at both the Auckland and Wellington Folk Festivals and when not on the stage he can often be found sitting around a tent picking some old country or blues tunes. He has always gravitated towards blues, country and Americana, but a stint at jazz school and a heavy interest in groups including The Band and The Grateful Dead have left their mark on his music. He has landed somewhere in between and returned to his acoustic roots following a brief stint in the rock band Skinnybone Tree.

Derek Burfield (bass) has been around long enough to remember Poles Apart Folk Club in Auckland during the late 60s and he has lugged his distinctive double bass around the New Zealand folk scene ever since. He was one of the founding members of Railway Pie and has played in bands with Neil Finlay, The Christiansons, Al Young and many more.

Membership Subs

If you would like to pay online the LFMC account number is 03-0667-0611942-00. Please include your name on the statement and Val will bring your new membership card to the next concert. Half yearly subs of $12.50 for Feb 1-June 30, 2021 are available, see Treasurer Val.

Secretary Assistance for 2021

Jean has let us know she will be stepping down at the AGM and we will be sorry to lose her much appreciated services. Does any Club member want to join the committee now in a learning role and take over for her, as she is still getting around on crutches and recovering.

Concert Night Helpers

If you could help set up then come down to the Scottish Hall at 4.00pm on the Friday of the concert. It takes about an hour with lots of helpers. Volunteers in the kitchen would be most helpful. Thank you.

Also, a note: Just a friendly note that Committee would appreciate members adhering to 7pm Doors open. There is plenty of time after 7pm to add your names to the open mic list, and more tables available this year.

NZ Folk Festival News

Members have been enjoying folk festivals and camping around New Zealand - Whare Flat, Tui Folk, Te Rangi and Auckland Folk Festival. What a great way of enjoying the summer! Coming up are Folk Stack and Patuha in Taranaki, Gorge Us Soundz 2021 in Ashhurst, Hamsterfest and Canterbury FF at Easter, and Tradfest in April. Regrettably Womad 2021 has been cancelled, as has the Waitangi Day get-together at Annie & Roys in Plimmerton.

Coastal Blues (April 10) should be a great night with Karen Clarke, The Caramellos and Darren Watson.

A new Uke festival is organised for Feb 14 in Upper Hutt (Wellington Uke Fest), Lauderfest is happening in Central Otago and Geraldine Ukefest is set for July. All details can be found on Facebook or feel free to ask Dale (06 368 6001) for more info.
